Description

English painter of interiors, landscapes and river scenes from the 1950-60 period. Griffin lived and worked in the south of England with many of his subjects being of the Sussex and Surrey landscape. He also painted in London and their a re a few examples of scenes along the River Thames. Other than this some of his best works are his interiors which are often full of color and fun. He painted mostly in oils , sometimes with a palette knife giving his work a different feel to his paint brush works.
